EMAIL STRATEGY AND IMPLEMENTATION

Give interested people a clear next step.

For established, expert-led businesses. We turn the interest you already have into consistent email follow-up.

TODAY

What we'll cover.

01	The problem	What happens after someone raises their hand
02	One journey	Why we start with one, not three
03	How we work	Fit, scope, test, handover
04	Where to start	A conversation about your email

01

The problem.

What happens after people show interest.

Most businesses don't have a traffic problem.

They have a follow-up problem.

People subscribe, enquire, then hear nothing useful.

THREE QUESTIONS WORTH ASKING

Where does follow-up break?

01 What happens after someone subscribes?

02 What happens after someone enquires?

03 Who owns the newsletter?

PICK THE ONE THAT MATTERS MOST

Start with one journey.

01

Welcome and nurture

What new subscribers get, in order, from day one.

02

Enquiry follow-up

What happens between “thanks for reaching out” and a real conversation.

03

Newsletter loop

A newsletter with an owner, a rhythm and a way to learn what’s working.

HOW WE WORK

How we work together.

1

Fit conversation

Where things stand, and whether there's a useful first project.

2

Scoped build

One journey, agreed in writing, built in the tools you already use.

3

Test and sign-off

Tested end to end. Nothing goes live without your sign-off.

4

Handover

Documented and handed over. Ongoing help is scoped separately.

WHAT YOU CAN COUNT ON

One owner. One agreed journey.

WITHOUT A CLEAR OWNER

- ~~People subscribe and hear nothing useful~~
- ~~Enquiries wait on whoever has time~~
- ~~The newsletter goes out when someone remembers~~

WITH DIGIWELL

WHERE TO START

Let’s talk about your email.

We’ll see where things stand and whether there’s a useful first project.
